

With less than a week left before Jay and I head out with the car in tow, Team Walla Walla is working on navigation skills and learning the ins-and-outs of the 1928 Model A Phaeton. We have worked for 6 months to get ready for the next 3 weeks. As of today we are about $500.00 short of our budgeted goal. If you have not had an opportunity to help the team with a donation, it is not too late. Donations to Team Walla Walla, sponsored by Camp Kiwanis Foundation, are tax deductible. Gifts may be sent to Team Walla Walla, 1345 University St., Walla Walla, WA 99362. The rest of this week we will focus in improving our decision-making skills and time calculations. We are also working on troubleshooting potential mechanical problems the car may encounter. Saturday the 17th we will load the trailer and make ready for an early morning departure on Sunday, June 18th. Baring any major problems, we should be in Philly late Wednesday afternoon. The rest of the team will arrive by airline around 11 p.m. Remember to check the website for updates to our progress.
